Our Character Essentials® theme in December is We Are Kind. As children grow, it's important to instill kindness and thoughtfulness at every stage. By demonstrating things like generosity, helpfulness, and politeness, we help children become more aware of how others are feeling. Throughout December, we introduce various ways to make others feel happy and appreciated, and we encourage you to do the same at home!

Performing random acts of kindness can positively influence the people showing and receiving kindness. As a family, think of ways that you all can show kindness to others.

Some ideas may include:

- Baking cookies for the mail carrier
- Purchasing canned goods for a homeless shelter
- Leaving notes and drawings for the neighbors
- Making a homemade bird feeder or some other similar item to show thoughtfulness toward an animal's needs
- Encouraging your child to look through their toys and set aside any they might be willing to donate. By including your children in the process and implementation, they can see firsthand the joy these acts of kindness can bring to others.

You can also read the following books together to help your child feel inspired:

- "George the Generous Giraffe" by Kim Trumbo
- "Reach Out and Give" by Cheri Meiners
- "Stone Soup" by Jon Muth
- "The Giving Tree" by Shel Silverstein
- "The Quiltmaker's Gift" by Jeff Brumbeau
- "How Kind!" by Mary Murphy
- "The Nice Book" by David Ezra Stein
- "When I Care About Others" by Cornelia Maude Spelman
